WE MAKE FRENCH STYLE JAPANESE CUISINE
FACTS ABOUT JAPANESE FOOD AND IT'S IMPACT ON HUMAN HEALTH

According to the latest official statistical abstract report released by U.S. Census Bureau of the Department of Commerce, 1998, the global average life of human beings in 1998 was 62.67 years of age. The average lift expectancy of the Japanese, however, is 80.0 years of age, ranking the No.1 in the world. Japanese also have a relatively lower rate of many cancers, arthritis, heart disease and diabetes.

Japan boasts one of the best diets in the world. The food contains low cholesterol, low sodium, low calorie, low fat, but high protein and adequate in vitamins and minerals.

Japanese cuisine is deceptively simple. It's key ingredients are but two: a rather delicate stock (dash) made from giant kelp and flakes of dried bonito, and Japanese soy sauce (Shoyu). Its key requirement are also two: the pristine freshness and the prime condition of materials used.

Nutritional Japanese food's popularity is continuing to spread throughout the United States and all over the world.

Dear Neighbor:

Permit me to introduce myself:

I have been in the restaurant business for almost 15 years. I am now in Manhattan on the Upper West Side where my new restaurant has attracted a large number of customers who have high standards of Chinese cuisine and have responded warmly to good cooking. Here's what some of our satisfied customers have said:

> "Wow, you have made this place so beautiful and so clean!"
>
> "Your food tastes so good! It's like home cooking – neither too greasy nor too salty!"
>
> "I love the atmosphére of your restaurant. It is so spacious -- not elbow to elbow as in some restaurants. I feel so comfortable as if I were eating at home."
>
> "Where on earth did you find such charming young men and women to serve at the tables? They are so eager to please and so adorable!"
>
> "Your seafood is out of this world!"
>
> "Your prices are so reasonable!"
>
> "You provide Chinatown food coupled with uptown convenience!"

Our chefs specialize either in Sichuanese cuisine or Canton-Hong Kong cuisine. They worked for many years in China and Hong Kong.

For lunch we offer soft drinks on the house; for dinner, free house wine. We have private facilities for family or business parties. We welcome your calls for reservations.

Last but not least, we depend on the comments and suggestions of our valued customers to help make Kathy's Chinese Kitchen your favorite neighborhood restaurant.

COME IN AND SAY HELLO!

Sincerely yours,

Kathy Kuo

Kathy Kuo, proprietor
Kathy's Chinese Kitchen

We offer genuine Chinese dishes from the two main regions of China: Canton-Fukien in the South, Peking-Shanghai in the Northwest, and Szechuan-Hunan in the West. Our chef's specializing in these dishes were born and learned the art of cooking in their respective native provinces.

CANTON-FUKIEN: Its semi-tropical climate is most favorable for growing vegetables and fruits; a long coast line and many rivers supply an abundance of sea food. It is for this reason most dishes from the region consist of vegetables, sea food and poultry. These low fat ingredients are most healthful, Master of their art of cooking, people from this region - especially the Cantonese - are very proud that they are the pioneers of the Chinese restaurant from Southeast Asia in the United States.

SZECHUAN - HUNAN: Szechuan, the province of the four rivers, Hunan, the land of hot peppers, are a paradise for all who love good food and quiet living. An outstanding feature of the cooking of this region is that many simple foods when prepared with hot peppers and magic timing become to be most delicious dishes and are considered good enough for any VIP. This may be the reason why so many of China's celebrated scholars throughout history loved to live in Szechuan and Hunan.
